Anarchists After An Editor.

The recent activity of the Omaha anarchists has culminated in a deliberate plot to murder one citizen and destroy the property, if not the tife, of another. Since the visit of Mrs Parsons, wife of the condemned Chicago anarchist, to this city a few weeks ago, the Omaha anarchists have been holding meetings two or three times a week, becoming more and more demonstrative with each meeting, and ending with a plot that places in great danger the life and property of Councilman Frank J. Kasper and his partner, J. A. Hospodsky. These gentlemen are proprietors and editors of the Bohemian paper "Narodni Listy," and it has been through the anti-anarchist atterances of this organ that the wrath of the Omaha anarchists has been incited. The facts of the causes leading up to this recent anarchist outbreak are full of interest, and can be best given with a reference to the order in which they occurred. Mr. J. A. Hospodsky, the editor of the Narodni Listy, is a young, finely educated Bohemian who got his journalistic training on the Bohemian papers of Cincinnati and eastern cities, and is fully posted on the work of the anarchists in those cities. He came here from Grand Island about six months ago and, with Mr. Kasper as a partner, commenced the publication of his paper. Alive to the dangers that were sure to result from the increase of the anarchistic element in Omaha, Mr. Hospodsky at once commenced a series of editorials appealing to his countrymen to beware of the anarchist association. He denounced the the Chicago anarchists and wrote able articles defining the danger that the labor organizations, to which most of the Bohe mians belong, would have to encounter by any association with the anarchistic elements. The publication of these utterances created great indignation among the local anaremsts and Mr. Hospodsky was served with a notice that he would save himself a great deal of trouble by leaving the city. He of course paid no attention to the threats, but renewed his attacks on the objects of the association with the result of having the local anarchists at a fever heat when Mr.s Parson arrived in the city. The meetings that were held during this woman's stay in the city and her personal visits to the homes of the most violent anarchists served to greatly increase the feeling against the Bohemian organ of law and government and left the local anarchists ripe for any work. In speaking of Mcs. Parson's lecture at the Cunningham hall a morning paper stated that "all Bohemia town turned the Cunningham half a mount turned stated that "all Bohemia town turned out to bear her." The "Narodni Listy," out to bear her." The "Narodni Listy," in commenting upon this, denied the truth of the statement, and claimed that out a very few of the Bohemians of Omaha were anarchists or at-tended anarchist meetings. "The Bohemian element of the anarchists," wrote Mr. Hospodsky in his paper, "consists of six men and five tailors." This statement greatly incensed several Bohemian tailors who are anarchists and they at once began to clamor for Hos-podsky's blood. A letter was written to im ordering him to leave the city at once upon the pain of being murdered if he remained. Mr. Hospodsky only added another revolver to his armory, published the letter and defied the writers, Meetings were called at one of the halls on Thirteenth street at which the most violent anarchistic doctrines were expounded. The articles that appeared in the Bohemian paper were read in the meetings and called forth the wildest demonstration from the assembled ene-mies of law, On Wednesday night February 2, after reading an editorial from the current number of the "Narodni Listy," in which the anarchists were handled severely and fun-poked at one of their meetings, one of the leading anarchists tore up the paper into shreds and stamped upon the pieces, announcing that the editor should be treated in the same manner. The action was taken up by the members of the meeting, who made a scramble for the pieces of paper, which were torn into the smallest bits, amidst the loud cursings and bitter denunciations of the editor by the crowd. After the meeting had adjourned seven of the most radical anarchists met in the basement of the building and decided to go to Hospodsky's home and kill him. They made ample preparations for their work of murder and started to carry out their plans. On their way they learned that the editor had gone to spend the night at the bedside of a sick friend, leaving no one at his home but his family. The would-be murderers waited until almost daylight for their victim's return, and then gives up the plan. return, and then gave up the plan for the night. Although the strictest secresy was observed regarding their movements news of the attempt became noised around and served to make the anarchists more cautious and at the same time to put Mr. Hospodsky and Mr. Kasper on their guard. On Wednesday night last another meeting was held and on Thursday morning Mr. Kasper received a letter warning him that if he valued his property he would send Hospodsky away. The letter was written in a disguised hand in the Bohemian language and ended with a threat to use violence. and ended with a threat to use violence toward the councilmen if he failed to comply with the request of the letter which was signed "several citizens of

'What do you propose to do?" asked a BEE reporter to whom these facts had been made known, of Mr. Kasper. "There is nothing to do," was the re-ply, "except to look out for No. 1, and I propose to do that. Personally I am not afraid of the men and the only thing I do fear is that they may use a bomb in destroying my property."

"You think the Omaha anarchists keep that useful article on hand then, do you?

asked the reporter.
"If they don't," said Mr. Kasper, you can bet that there are plenty of them who know how to make them. There is a cooper here who is a crazy anarchist that kept bombs in his cellar all last summer. Personally, the most of them are cowards, but they are apt to resort to measures that can not be guarded Have you asked for police protec-

"Yes; but I don't expect anything much to come from it. The police don't seem anxious to handle the anarchists. True they arrested Balthauzer Rau last summer, but they refused to arrest Par-sons, who was here for some time. Parcame into my saloon one day and drank a glass of beer. I saw him when he was here in 1883, when I was on the police force, and I recognized him at once. I found out that he was stopping out at Ruhe's to interfere with the local disturbers to interiere with the local arsturbers either. The anarchists who used to hold their meetings out at Ruhe's have become bolder since Mrs. Parson's visit, and now hold a meeting or two every week in their hall right here on Thirteenth street. They keep the hall decorated with red flags and rifles, and spend a good deal of time in drilling and practising the manual of arms. A policeman attempted to get into one of their meet ings the other night and was refused admittance. He indulged in a scuffle and finally shot one of the fellows through the hand, but he was thrown out of the meeting just the same. I have placed my case in the hands of one of the best detectives in the country, and have no doubt but that I

The door to the editorial room of the "Narodni Listy," over Kasper's saloon, on South Thirteenth street, was locked when the reporter called. By a side door be reached the presence of Mr. Hospodski, the editor of the paper, whose pen has caused most of the paper, whose can bring the offenders to justice. oen has caused most of the recent trouble The editor is a pleasant featured man, hose eye glasses illy conceal a pair of bright black eyes, that beam intelligence no less than determination.

What do I think of them?" he said, opening the query of the reporter con-"They are a set of cowards, and I am not in the least afraul of them. There is t wrong impression pression prevalent concerning the make up of the Omaha anarchists. A great many think that the association is composed largely of entirely of Bohemians. The fact is that there is but eleven Bohemians in Omaha who are numbered with the anarchists, 'six men and five tailors,' as I wrote in the paper. I have worked hard to keep the Bohemians out of the order, and that is why the anarchists have been after my scalp. I am not afraid of them, howsealp. I am not afraid of them, ever, I have heard their bark before. You think then that there is no dan ger from the threats of the anarchists against you?"

"Personally, I have nothing to fear. I do not mingle with them, and if they want to attack me they must come on my own ground and there I am not afraid of them. Omaha has nothing to fear from the anarchists in times like these. In case of a strike, however, the labor organizations would be greatly damaged by them. They would destroy property and commit crimes for which the labor organizations would be wrongfully blamed. There are about three hundred of them in Omaha."

A COASTING ACCIDENT.

Two Children of Mr. Busch Very Se verely Injured. A frightful coasting accident occurred on Saturday evening on Campbell street. Johnnie and Tillie, aged eight and five years respectively, children of Mr. Henry Busch, janitor of the Dodge street school. were coasting near the Long school, when their traverse became unmanageable and ran into a ditch at the side of the street which was filled with brush. Both of the children were thrown headlong into the ditch and severely injured. The boy struck his head against a frozen bank and had his skull frightfully crushed. He was picked up and carried to his home near by in an unconscious condition, and remained in a comatose condition until yesterday, when he showed signs of re-turning consciousness. He is still very low and his recovery is a matter of grave doubt. The little girl was more fortunate but was very severely injured. Her left arm was broken in two places. also sustained other injuries of a less se-

A Gambler's Sudden and Mysterious Illness.

Friday morning Fremont Hale arrived in the city from West Point and put up house badly intoxicated. He played and won $710. During the night he drank heavily. Yesterday morning he went against the wheel again and lost his win-nings and more beside. His friend got him to promise to go home. At the foot of the stairs he changed his mind and of the stairs he changed his mind and refused to go. They strolled along Douglas street and Hale stepped into a drug store and called for strychnine. The druggist refused to give it to him. They went back to the gambling house and on coming down stairs again Hale sank down upon the steps helpless. Just before this he had drank a glass of whisky, His friend called a policeman to guard him, and started in search of a doctor. Dr. Lee was found and upon advice Hale was removed to his room. He was pumped out, but no trace of poison could be Whether the attack was the result of his debauch or a mysterious poison of some sort, could not be delimitely determined.

Three Cottages Burned. At 10 o'clock last night an alarm of fire was turned in from the box at the corner of Seventh and Pacific streets. The flames from the blaze lighted up the sky over that portion of the city, leading many to the fire was in Her's distillery or in the packing houses and a large crowd rushed to the scene. The fire had appeared in a cottage just south of the dis-tillery on Fourth street, occupied by a family named Svensen. Before the firemen reached the fire the flames had spread to two adjoining cottages, occu-pled by families named Murray and Hansen. All three of the cottages were partially destroyed. The loss will not exceed $750.

AMUSEMENTS. Musical Events Which Transpired

Yesterday-Coming Events. The third concert by the Philharmonic orchestra was given in Boyd's opera house yesterday afternoon, in the presence of about three hundred people. Every feature was most heartily appreciated, even Strausses' opening march, which was of a light and unimportant order, which served, however, to open the programme. The greatest success, by the orehestra, or rather a quintette, composed of members of the same, was Moskozwski's screnade. It was played by the same gentlemen at the concert of the Quintette club in the annex about two weeks ago. It is a light, vapory composi-tion, suggestive of moon and starlight and amorous swains breathing, and softly vociferating, heart-felt feelings of tender ness and love from some sleeping beauty It was admirably played though the tempo of the first performance which was that of a march, was changed to that peculiarly appropriate to a methodical out-door voicing during the night, Mrs. Edith Edwards Franco, though making great effort to entertain her guests suffered from a noticeably severe cold. Mr. Franko's efforts were highly appreci-

THE STEINHAUSER CONCERT.

Yesterday afternoon, the second con-cert in the series commenced on Sunday last by Prof. F. M. Steinbauser and his excellent or hestra, was given in the Germania Hall, on Harney and Eighteenth streets. The attendance greatly exceeded that of the preceding entertainment. It is understood to be Prof. Steinhouser's idea to establish Sunday afternoon concerts for individual and family entertainment, such as are given in all the large cities, where they are patronized in large num bers, both Germans and Americans. The probability is that before many weeks, relatively speaking, his undertaking will attract the attention which it deserves. His programme comprised an excellent assortment of pieces, which were finely calculated to satisfy a most varied and discriminating taste. The numbers have aiready been published in these columns, and each of them was rendered in a manner which evoked most appreciative applause. The great novelty of the bill, however, was the singing by Miss Bertha Steinhauser, of a selection from "Ernania," Miss Steinhauser is young, intelligent and ambitious. She has a voice of exceeding richness, reasonable strength and remarkable flexibility. She uses it with the ease and grace of a talented and promising vocalist. The size of the hall, however, was such as to pre-vent the lady appearing to the satisfaction she might otherwise have experi-enced had the auditorium been such as would afford full play to the resonance of her tones. Miss Steinhauser has a pronfising artistic future. Her effort yes terday was most warmly applauded and secured a hearty encore. Prof. Steinhauser's orchestra gives its third concert at the same place on next Sunday afternoon.

. TREBELLI-MUSIN CONCERT. The Trebelli-Musin concert at the exposition building this evening will prove a rare treat. Mme. Trebelli is a vocalist of rare accomplishment, and one who has won great renown in Europe. She was received with great enthusiasm in New York, all the critics of that city praising her in the highest terms. Musin s acknowledged to be one of the greatest violinists of the present time. His work is characterized by feeling and elegance rarely equalled. M. Musin has won the highest enconiums from the press of New York and Chicago. The BEE ex-presses the hope that the music-loying presses the nope that the music-loying people will give to these famous artists the reception they deserve. Prof. Franko, of this city, will play a duet with Musin at the latter's request. The programme is an excellent one, and is as at the Paxton. He had $30 in each and, in company with a friend started out to enjoy himself. Saturday night he brought up at a Douglas street gambling house badly intoxicated. He played and an interesting talk between that gentle man and a reporter for the Beg. As has already been announced, Patti, the greatest songstress the world now possesses, will appear in the exposition building on Thursday evening, the 24th mst. She will sing and be assisted by a corps of artists comprising Mmc. Scalchi and Signors Guille, Glassi, Novari and Arditi, the latter with an orchestra of worldwide fame. The tickets for the concert sell at $1, $2, $3 and $4, according to the location of the seats.

"Mme. Patti, said Mr. Mayer, "since last November, when she arrived here, sang in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Cincinnati, Chicago. New Orleans, and Galveston. She then went to Mexico. Seats were sold in advance for four concerts. What do you suppose the sales amounted to; $110,000, Three supplementary concerts were given. The receipts of these seven entertainments were $870,000. Single seats sold at $7.50. On one of these evenings the receipts amounted to $150,000. This phenomedal business is unprecedented in the annals of the musical world. And this, bear in mind, was after the fraudulent agent had run away with about two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. So you see Patti's appearance in Mexico caused the changing of more than one million of dollars. If that scoundrel had been caught he would have been killed. In San Francisco Mme. Patti's receipts from six concerts were $64,000. In Los Angelos her success was likewise unprecedented. She sings but twice a week. She sings in Omaha at a lower rate than any other place which I have mentioned, because of the posibility of a large audience.

"With regard to the crank who threw the bomb at the madame, he simply hurt himself. Patti will sing here as announced notwithstanding her narrow escape. We carry scenery with us and shall use it in the second act of 'Semira-mede,' which will close Madame Patti's performance." "Bernhardt plays here the first week in May. She is now in Mexico. Her tour of the United States will be undertaken on March 1. She will play in all the large cities first, and on her way to the coast will appear here at the time mentioned."

The sale of seats for Patti's concert commences next Saturday, February 19, at Max Meyer's. The latter gentleman is in receipt of many letters from all parts of the state asking how to secure seats for the concert on the 24th inst. Some of the letters are from Sioux City and Yankton. Of her acting the Keokuk Democrat says: "An interesting feature of Keeue's engagement in Richard III was the deput of Miss Timberman as Lady Anne. She was received with enthusiasm and went through the trying scenes admirably. It was a strong and polished representation."

ITS THIEDEY

Is, that all Food Baked or Roasted, should be cooked in frosh air freely admitted to the oven. This is done by discarding the close oven door heretofore used, But substituting for it a door containing a shost of Wire Gauze nearly as large as the door itself.

Through this Gauze Door the air freely circulates, facilitating the process of cookins, and producing food that is unequalied in flavor and nutrition, and actually cooked with less consumption of feel than in an oven with a closed door, but the latest of meaf. It makes an enormous saving in the weight of meaf. It also produces larger Loaves of Bread, requires less attention from the cook, and promotes requires less attention from the cook, and promotes the health of the family by the SUPERIOR QUALITY OF THE FOOD COORED IN IT.

OPINION OF AN EXPERT.

Mns, Mary B. Weller, Teacher Domestic Feonomy.
Iowa State University, says: "My deliberate indement is that the over of the Rance, as compared with others, is not only more equally heated in every part—front as well as rear—but as a result of its squerior ventilation the food placed therein is botter cooked, while retaining a sweeter flavor, and a larger propertion of fuel the index of the large properties of the little Range is much less than any other for same work."
